Austerity measures squeezing provincial nursing jobs: Union

Gloomy picture. 'For newly graduated nurses, Ontario really doesn't have the welcome mat out,' says
nurses' association prez

Ontario's finance minister painted a rosy picture of nursing in the province when he visited London this week, but one would be hard-pressed to find many in the industry who agree.

In the past six weeks, layoffs were announced at St.

Joseph's Hospital and London
Health Sciences Centre said it would be cutting hours equivalent to 27 full-time nurses. The situation is similar elsewhere in Ontario, industry insiders said. Meanwhile, the union representing Ontario nurses is battling with the government over a proposed wage cut for new hires.

It paints a gloomy picture for those graduating and about to enter the workforce.

"For nurses and especially newly graduated nurses, Ontario really doesn't have the welcome mat out," said Ontario Nurses' Association vice-president Vicki McKenna.

The government has promised there will be more jobs offered to registered nurses in community settings as hospital spots trickle out, but McKenna says that's more of a pipe dream than anything.

"Quite frankly, those jobs in the community tend to be part-time and casual and not well paid," she said.

Doris Grinspun, CEO of the Registered Nurses' Association of Ontario, agreed that the pickings are slim, adding she's been in contact with Health Minister Deb Matthews about the challenges.

A decreasing number of registered nurses directly impacts patients, she said.

"It's extremely shortsighted when the government is saying hospitals should be ... attending to very ill people with complex care needs."

While graduating nurses are guaranteed six months of work under a government initiative, not everyone is able to keep the jobs permanently.

Jobs may be hard to come by now, but the industry is cyclical and Grinspun is certain there will be a rebound.

At a glance

- Between January and September 2013 alone, more than 1,100 front-line registered nursing positions were cut in Ontario, the Ontario Nurses' Association says.
- A Canadian Institute for Health Information report from October shows the province has the country's second-lowest ratio of registered nurses to population. The worst ratio is in B.C.

City's future

ReThink London enters final phase

"Did we hit the right notes?"

That's what city planner John Fleming is prepared to ask Londoners as ReThink London — the massive exercise in mapping the city's future and getting input from across the board — nears completion.

John Fleming
CONTRIBUTED

Next week, city councillors will see the timetable for the last part of a process that began in 2011, with the public engagement happening in earnest since last August.

"This plan clearly represents the desires of Londoners that we heard through the process," Fleming said.

"It was the largest and most exhaustive engagement process for an official plan in London's history and one of the largest and most exhaustive in Canada."

It's the first full-scale review of planning and development in London since 1989, and it will be presented in completed form to council in May.

But the public consultation won't end there, because Londoners will be invited to take a look at the finished document and make more comments.

There will be a public participation meeting in June.

The initiative also includes an advanced website with interactive maps where people can post comments.

Come and talk to us, students campaigning for bus service have been told.

Social work program students at King's University College are forming a group to lead a call for LTC service on their campus.

Right now, there's just a shuttle bus service to Western University's main campus and the campaigners say it creates a hardship for students with mobility problems.

They also say people are unable to stay late in the library, sometimes miss parts of classes and don't feel safe walking through streets after dark to reach city bus routes.

They want the 1B Kipps Lane bus to be rerouted to the King's campus and are open to paying more for their student passes.

Now, Coun. Joni Baechler, who's a member of the London Transit Commission, has invited the group to present their requests to a board meeting.

"I'm not a transit technician in terms of optimization of system, but I think that if there is something we can do that might meet the needs of transit from a fiscal perspective and meet the needs of the students, then I think as a board member I'd be willing to listen," said Baechler.

"They should ask for delegation status at the transit commission and come with a presentation to us."

She added: "If we can find a way to make it better, I'm certainly open to this."

Economic prosperity.

Fontana will push for new advisory committee and enterprise centre

mike.donachie@metronews.ca

The business community has spoken, and Mayor Joe Fontana says he's listening.

The outcome of November's big roundtable discussion at the Mayor's Economic Prosperity Council (MEPC), which brought together more than 100 private-sector leaders, has been made public.

Among its detailed messages to the city is a simple one: Listen to us. The council, in a report released Thursday, calls for a new city hall committee to give business a voice. It would be known as the economic action committee, reporting directly to the councillors on city hall's investment

Welcome to city hall?

There could be a fresh welcome mat rolled out for businesses and others on the renovated first floor of city hall, council members will hear next week.

- The city's putting together a $180,000 upgrade to the face of the building, under the banner Service London.
- Monday's strategic priorities and policy committee meeting will look at the plan, which includes a spot for a planning department staff member and for other services, including pet licences.

augment London's economic development strategy?"

The MEPC conclusions have been put together by co-chairs John Winston, of Tourism London, and Marilyn Sinclair, of TechAlliance. They also talk of MEPC representatives from different sectors meeting twice a year for "critical assessment of the identified projects."

There's also a renewed call for an enterprise centre — a specialized business incubator — and Fontana's in favour of that, too.

"I continue to believe that we need an enterprise centre, to showcase everything the city has to offer," he said.

The MEPC also heard related requests for advisory services, collaboration opportunities, a mentorship network and better links between the private sector and the city's post-secondary education institutions.

And Fontana's favourite part of the MEPC process is it called for a "green light" instead of "red tape" for business.

"That phrase speaks volumes," he said.

Food bank not answer to poverty: Agency leader

Changes. London organization will close if new model found

SCOTT TAYLOR
scott.taylor@metronews.ca

The food bank model is broken, a key figure at the London Food Bank says.

The idea behind it is outdated, and what was a temporary stopgap measure when it began 27 years ago is no longer the answer to ending hunger in London an impassioned Glen Pearson said Thursday.

Pearson, the food bank's co-founder, kicked off the 27th annual Spring Food Drive with a call to arms for the community to band together and find solutions to poverty at the grass-roots level.

Part of that solution could mean closing the agency three years from now. "There was always this tenacious belief that when this recession is over, governments will come back, businesses will come back, employment will begin to rise again and people will be able to make their own way," Pearson said before a crowd of students at King's University College. "And at the end of that recession in the '80s, it did not happen."

Pearson described the 1990s as great times, but rather than the number of people using the food bank decreasing, they held steady or rose. Since then, the numbers have spiked.

"I ask you, what is temporary about that?" Pearson said.

Pearson said the newly minted London Poverty Research Centre will take the issue on with the goal of returning in time for the Thanksgiving Food Drive with a new model to feed and sustain families that need help.

He also was adamant that while the timeline to close the food bank is three years, it won't go anywhere if there are still hungry families with nowhere to turn. The closure would not affect partner agencies that receive supplies from the food bank.

"The answer isn't in Ottawa, the answer isn't in Queen's Park, the answer isn't even in city council," Pearson said. "The answer is in us, defending the right for the human family to have dignity and to live."

Fundraiser. Turning lemons into aid

There was a mighty wind, but that didn't stop Ivey School of Business students from pushing lemonade sales at what seemed to be almost every corner of the city Wednesday and Thursday.

They were using the tried-and-true moneymaker for the annual Hunter Straker and Ivey Give LemonAid fundraiser. Proceeds go to the United Way's Innovation Fund.

In all, 601 students divided into 80 teams were armed with only $50 in seed money, a cardboard lemonade stand they had to make themselves, a pitcher and a set of markers.

They then set out to raise as much money as possible in 48 hours. The attention they got spanned the globe with Jamaican sprinter Usain Bolt tweeting his support for a team.

Brigitte McIntyre, a first-year Ivey student, was on Western University's campus Thursday with fellow business students spreading the gospel of the lemon. "It's windy, but it's nice weather," she said. "So we're doing a good job so far."

Last year, the students raised $108,013 for the United Way. SCOTT TAYLOR/METRO

In vitro. Ontario promises help for infertile women

Ontario's governing Liberals are promising to provide limited coverage of infertility services to more women who are struggling to get pregnant.

They say they plan to help would-be parents pay for one cycle of in vitro fertilization for all forms of infertility starting early next year.

But the province won't cover the costs of drugs and other services associated with IVF, which can cost thousands of dollars.

Health Minister Deb Matthews wouldn't say exactly how much of the IVF costs will be covered, but estimates Ontario will pay out $50 million annually once the program is fully implemented.

She says the government hasn't decided yet whether it will offset the costs through a tax credit or through the Ontario Health Insurance Plan.

Thursday's announcement by the minority Liberals comes ahead of their spring budget, which would lead to an election if defeated by the opposition parties. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Traffic detours coming. Threat of rain to delay Wharncliffe Road closure

Rain forecast for this weekend has forced the city to postpone emergency repairs at Wharncliffe Road and Riverside Drive.

The intersection was expected to close Sunday into Monday morning as crews repaired a storm sewer. The work has now been pushed back to May 4 and 5.

When the closure rolls around, city officials are advising drivers to avoid the intersection all together.

Eastbound Riverside Drive traffic will be detoured north at Woodward Avenue to Oxford Street.

Westbound traffic on Riverside will only be able to turn right at the intersection. The same will be true for drivers headed north and south on Wharncliffe. METRO

LCC gave local economy $15.5M boost: Report

How much is the London Convention Centre worth to the local economy?

A whopping $15.5 million, according to the facility's 2013 annual report.

People who come to the centre for events spend, on average, $301 a day on accommodations, transportation, food, drinks and shopping, the report says.

Adding up all the years, convention centre events have meant $107.6 million for the economy, the report says.

Up With Art. Fundraiser to support Unity Project's work

mike.donachie@metronews.ca

Sometimes art can change — or save — a life.

"I was an addict right from nine years old," artist Monica Lindenfield said. "It just snowballed from there, where I had to have that bigger, better high.

"But when I discovered painting, I could kind of put that part of my life into painting and get away from myself.

"It gave me a safe out." It's a powerful story, brought to the fore by Up With Art, the mélange of arts and culture happening at the Palace Theatre on Saturday.

It will raise money for Unity Project, a program that offers shelter and housing support to those in need.

Up With Art

It starts at 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the Palace Theatre (710 Dundas St.), and includes music, film, poetry and performances.

- Visit upwithart.ca for more details.

The organization helped Lindenfield during her tough time, and she's among the artists who have a combined 85 works of art on sale in Up With Art.

Lindenfield uses a style she calls "drop gravity." She drops and throws paint at the canvas to create abstract works.

And she's talented, said Jeremy Jersky, whose New School of Colour art centre gives free training and support to Unity Project clients.

"I would say she has an innate and yet provocative sense of colour," he said.

Four key parts of Up With Art

Keep your bids quiet

The silent auction includes 30 works donated by 13 collectors, plus items by renowned local artists and pieces created by youth, Unity Project residents and people experiencing poverty.

Win some prizes

A raffle includes a quilt created by the Unity Project's Chuck Lazenby, and a Tom Benner drawing. There are door prizes, too, including a painting by Jeremy Jersky.

Recognition for inspiration

Each year, the event honours someone with the My Life In Colour Award. The winner, according to the organizers, will be "special, artful, influential and inspirational."

The ambitious target

Up With Art, it is hoped, will raise $75,000 to support the Unity Project's Life Skills program. It helps vulnerable people with health and wellness issues, improves employment skills and more.

Immigration to Canada

Newcomers. Ready to shape the future, even if number of people arriving slows

SCOTT
TAYLOR

scott.taylor@metronews.ca

What will Canada look like in 2017 as it becomes 150 years old? What will it look like beyond that?

The tide of immigration will continue, but some think the flow will become more of a trickle as the years pass.

"I think it's a fair assumption to think that there will be a lower level of immigration than the current level," said Western University sociology professor Roderic Beaujot.

Politicians may say Canada needs immigration "especially at election time," Beaujot said. But, the problem is, demographers and economists aren't necessarily preaching the same message, he said.

Beaujot also sees the need to stem population explosions around the world as having an adverse effect on immigration.

"The world can't sustain this continuous growth that we have," he said. "The population has to live within the ecology. For that alone, it may slow down."

Such thoughts are worlds away for two young women, who recently became Canadian citizens.

Paula Garcia's family came to Canada from Colombia seven years ago. Soon, the 23-year-old university student will be able to give back to the country that took her in, all while fulfilling a dream of her own.

She plans to be an elementary school teacher, in part, because she wants to offer children the best possible future.

"I love kids, so that's what I thought would be the best thing for me," she said. "I have the possibility to do this here now."

The citizenship ceremony, Garcia said, was wonderful, and while the test she had to pass to get there was difficult, it was fair. She earned an A.

She was one of 62 people who became citizens at a March 26 ceremony in London.

Maria Qureshi, 32, originally from Pakistan, was there too.

She held a small Canadian flag in her hand and had a smile on her face, after taking the oath. "It's like nervous excitement," she said. "I had tears in my eyes when they first announced that we're citizens, and I loved the judge's speech.

It was amazing."

Citizenship Judge Normand Vachon quoted inspirational leaders such as Nelson Mandela, Mother Teresa and Mahatma Gandhi in his welcoming speech to the new Canadians.

Qureshi said the long wait for that day was difficult, but boasted that she too aced the citizenship test. "I studied extra hard for it, and I took it really seriously," she said proudly. "So I scored full marks on it."

In Canada, she said she hopes for a better future because she has a better chance of

Research

A Statistics Canada paper says one of three situations, all depending on a number of factors and formulas, will play out for immigration through 2036.

- Low projection: Six immigrants per thousand population each year; would be the lowest rate recorded since early 1990s.
- Medium projection: 7.5 immigrants per thousand population each year; matches the average annual immigration rate for early 1990s to late 2000s.
- High projection: Nine immigrants per thousand population each year; matches highest rate recorded since 1991.

Offering their take

Looking into the future

Here's what some of the people Metro talked to over the past five days said about where they've come from and what they hope to see in coming years.

Jamie Martinez (from Colombia): "The first thing that we need to do is to have equity here. It means if the population of Colombians is two per cent (in Canada), every company needs to have two per cent Colombians working there."

Jaime
Martinez

Shirley Edwards (from United Kingdom): "It takes a number of years to settle and integrate into a new country.

Be patient, though. Know that when you need support (you can) ask for it (and) it will come. That's what community is for. That's the Canada we now call home."

Shirley
Edwards

Priscilla Bunke (From Nigeria): "My hope for the future is to be able to follow my career and help my children achieve their potential in our chosen country."

Canadian opinion

Young people more open to immigrants: Prof

Freedom, peace, the opportunity to build a better life.

It's simple to see why people from other countries care about immigration and are passionate about its future.

But what about the average Canadian? Is immigration — the influx of people with different ways of doing things — a positive or a negative thing?

Much of it depends on who you're asking, one expert said.

"Judging by the students I meet every year in Ottawa, who come from several parts of the country, the young generation has a more progressive and more open-minded notion (of immigration)," said University of Ottawa

Canadian history professor Pierre Anctil.

More rural areas tend to be less accepting, Anctil said. Though there are exceptions to that rule, he added.

Morgentaler Clinic to close this summer

New Brunswick.
Controversial abortion clinic set to close, citing a lack of funds

The contentious issue of abortion in New Brunswick arose Thursday after the Morgentaler Clinic in Fredericton said it will close at the end of July, a decision the facility's manager said was the result of the province's refusal to fund the procedure at clinics.

Simone Leibovitch said the clinic, which has been in operation for 20 years, has been providing abortions even though it has lost about $100,000 over the last decade.

"Dr. Morgentaler's policy was always such that no woman would ever be turned away from having an abortion, and we followed that policy," Leibovitch told a news conference.

"The reality is we can't continue to stay open and provide abortions that are not publicly funded. It's impossible."

Abortion isn't covered by medicare in the province unless two doctors certify in writing that it is medically necessary. In addition, it must be performed by a specialist in an approved hospital.

"As far as I'm concerned, the solution to this problem is up to the government of New Brunswick," Leibovitch said. "They need to repeal Regulation 84-20. It is a barrier to health care. It's always been a barrier to health care."

The regulation was introduced in 1984 and has been a source of controversy. In 2002, Dr. Henry Morgentaler launched a lawsuit in a bid to force the provincial government to pay for the procedure at clinics. The case has been in limbo since Morgentaler died last May.

New Brunswick Health Minister Hugh Flemming refused to comment on the matter, citing the court proceedings.

In the legislature, Liberal Opposition Leader Brian Gallant said he is pro-choice and called on the government to study the issue of access to abortion.

Jula Hughes, a law professor at the University of New Brunswick and a supporter of the Morgentaler Clinic, said she fears women will look for less reputable places to terminate a pregnancy once the facility shuts down. "That would just be horrific beyond contemplation," she said. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Child bride kills groom and friends

A child bride forced into marriage in Nigeria killed a groom and three of his friends with a poisoned meal, police said Thursday.

Fourteen-year-old Wasila Umaru was married last week to 35-year-old Umaru Sani, according to assistant superintendent Musa Magaji Majia.

Over the weekend, the groom invited a dozen friends to celebrate at his village. Umaru told police she bought rat poison at a village market and used it to prepare a dish of rice. "The suspect confessed to committing the crime and said she did it because she was forced to marry a man she did not love," Majia said.

The groom and a friend died the same day. Two other victims died later in the hospital. Umaru is co-operating with police and likely will be charged with culpable homicide, Majia said.

According to the UN children's agency, 50 per cent of Nigerian girls in rural areas are married before they turn 18.

Jim Flaherty dead at 64

'Very sad day.' Death of former finance minister stuns Parliament Hill

Jim Flaherty died suddenly Thursday at age 64, less than a month after retiring from his post as Canada's finance minister.

Flaherty, who spent eight years in the role, had been ill for some time, though that was not cited as a reason for his resignation.

The news rocked the House of Commons, as politicians mourned the loss of a finance minister who trudged through a financial crisis and recession and balanced the once rocky Canadian budget.

"Today is a very sad day — for me, for our government and for all of our country. I learned a short time ago that our colleague, my partner and my friend Jim Flaherty has passed away suddenly today," Prime Minister Stephen Harper told MPs in a Parliament Hill committee room with his wife Laureen in tears by his side.

"This comes as an unexpected and terrible shock to Jim's family, to our caucus and to Laureen and me."

Question period was suspended Thursday after the news broke. The usually raucous chamber was in a lull, with politicians hugging, crying and mourning together.

"It was very, very sombre, sad, but shocking, obviously," said NDP MP Paul Dewar, adding that, unlike other finance ministers, Flaherty brought a certain levity to the usually stressful environment. "He had that twinkle in his eye and he had a great sense of humour that brought something to the House of Commons and the politics, which is all too often not there."

Foreign Affairs Minister John Baird expressed his condolences in a written statement Thursday, calling Flaherty a "good friend and colleague for over two decades."

"Jim was a mentor to me throughout my time at Queen's Park from a very young age," wrote Baird. "I could always rely on Jim to be a devout friend through tough times, and an encouraging figure through good."

Former Parliamentary Budget Officer Kevin Page, now a professor at the University of Ottawa, spent extensive time on the job with Flaherty and although the two butted heads on several issues, Page acknowledged how good a finance minister Flaherty was.

"It's a loss for the country for sure," said Page. "It's just an exhausting job, but he certainly rose to the occasion."

Flaherty's family offered a statement before asking for privacy.

"We appreciate that (Flaherty) was so well supported in his public life by Canadians from coast to coast to coast and by his international colleagues," it said.

Brazeau arrested on charges of assault, cocaine possession

Suspended senator Patrick Brazeau pleaded not guilty on Thursday to several charges, including assault and cocaine possession.

Police arrested the 39-year-old in Gatineau, near Ottawa, at around 4 a.m. Thursday following a domestic assault call. Police say they arrived to find Brazeau and a woman in a "physical altercation." A 50-year-old man was also at the house.

Brazeau was charged with two counts of assault, uttering death threats, cocaine possession and breach of conditions. He briefly appeared in court wearing handcuffs. He did not look at reporters.

He also has one charge of assault and one charge of sexual assault outstanding from 2013.

Brazeau was to be held in custody overnight and was due to reappear in court Friday morning for a bail hearing.

Crown prosecutor Sylvain Petitclerc said he asked to keep Brazeau in custody to assure the safety of others and because he breached bail conditions.

"We cannot just let him go free as a bird like that," he said, adding that depending on the bail hearing, Brazeau could be kept in custody again or be released with certain conditions.

A huge pile of what appeared to be Brazeau's belongings were strewn all over the back door of his girlfriend's house, including photographs, his Certificate of Indian Status card, clothing and CDs.

Gatineau police say the 50-year-old man also on the scene will be charged with assault.

Access to information. Report shows Tory staffers interfered with requests

The Information Commissioner of Canada has found evidence of "systemic interference" with access to information requests by three Conservative staff members, and suggests bringing in the police.

But the Public Works Department, where the interference occurred, says it won't be referring the matter to the RCMP because police did not lay charges in a similar case.

Suzanne Legault delivered her second report Thursday following an investigation into cases that date back to 2009 in the office of cabinet minister Christian Paradis, who was Public Works minister at the time.

She had already found against staff member, Sebastien Togneri, in a previous investigation, but found that Togneri and two of his colleagues interfered in five other instances.

Togneri, Jillian Andrews and Marc Toupin had all insisted on changes or modifications to government records that bureaucrats had already cleared for release. THE CANADIAN PRESS

UN study

Murder rates dip globally, stay high in Africa, Americas

Global murder rates have declined slightly, but remain very high in the Americas and parts of Africa, according to a new UN study released Thursday.

Homicide rates in southern Africa and Central America are more than four times higher than the global average of 6.2 victims per 100,000 people, the UN Office on Drugs and Crime report said.

Beijing artist Liang Kegang returned from a business trip in southern France with a small item of protest against his home city's choking pollution: a glass jar of clean, Provence air.

He put it up for auction before a group of about 100 Chinese artists and collectors late last month, and it fetched 5,250 yuan ($860).

"Fifty-seven million children are still denied access to education."

Spencer West

Sure, we've all been on a road trip, but imagine one that sets out to visit 90 cities in 10 weeks — oh, and did we mention it's all to celebrate Canadian students helping other youth around the world to access education?

Starting Friday, Free the Children ambassador Spencer West, along with friends from the band Neverest, 11-year-old activist Hannah Alper and cast members from Degraasi, are visiting schools across the country as part of the We Create Change Tour.

This unique trip is billed as a "mini We Day" — Free the Children's annual event inspiring youth to get involved and make a difference in their community and the world.

"Fifty-seven million children are still denied access to education," said West, who lost both his legs at the age of five. "I've had the chance to speak with young people around the world, who dream of changing their lives and the lives of their families through education."

As a sponsor, Metro will follow the tour as it makes its way across the country, with West sharing with readers how students across Canada have inspired him with their efforts to help those who haven't had an opportunity to go to school.

Visit metronews.ca to follow our interactive map chronicling West's journey.

Military cadets answer U.S. call of cyber duty

If Douglas MacArthur or Ulysses S. Grant went to the U.S. Military Academy today, they might be testing their defensive skills hunched in front of a computer screen.

A team of caffeine-fuelled cadets spent long days this week in a computer lab trying to fend off threats cooked up by experts at the National Security Agency. The annual Cyber Defence Exercise will determine which of the five service academies can create computer networks that can best withstand the four-day barrage.

The 14-year-old exercise lacks the lore of Army-Navy football but not the intensity. Not only does the exercise dovetail into the military's broader strategy of staying ahead of the curve in cyber operations, but the West Point cadets relish the chance to test their computer skills against their peers.

"This is the Army-Navy game for our electrical engineering and computer science departments ... this is our chance to beat the other service academies," said Cadet Jason DeCoursey.

A United States Military Academy cadet checks computers at the Cyber Research Center in West Point, N.Y., Wednesday. The West Point cadets are fending off cyberattacks as part of an exercise. MEL EVANS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

DeCoursey was one of about 30 senior cadets crammed in a windowless computer lab at the academy on Wednesday.

The exercise is essentially a high-tech game of capture the flag: The NSA team attempts to capture "tokens" embedded in the academies' networks.

The academies for Army, Navy, Air Force, Coast Guard and Merchant Marine compete, and the one that does the best job fending off the barrage of cyberattacks is declared the winner.

Air Force won last year and was clearly the team cadets here measure themselves against. By midday Wednesday, Air Force was ahead, but barely. Army defences were holding up well after a nerve-racking breach the day before and cadets were keeping up with the long hours.

Dellen Millard. Suspect facing two more murder charges, including dad's

A Toronto man accused of killing a Hamilton, Ont., father who disappeared after taking a pair of prospective buyers for a test drive has now been charged with murder in the death of his own father and another woman.

Dellen Millard has been charged with first-degree murder in the deaths of Wayne Millard and Laura Babcock, with whom Dellen was romantically linked, Ontario provincial police said Thursday.

Mark Smich is also charged with first-degree murder in Babcock's death.

Millard, 28, and Smich, 26, are charged with first-degree murder in the death of Tim Bosma, who vanished May 6, 2013 after leaving home in his pick-up with two men. He had posted the truck for sale online.

His remains were found about a week later burned beyond recognition at a southwestern Ontario farm belonging to Millard.

Millard is also charged with forcible confinement and theft of a vehicle in Bosma's death.

Investigators have said the OPP said Thursday they charged Christina Noudga, 21, with being an accessory after the fact in that case.

Police believe Bosma was killed the same night he went missing, but haven't said where it happened.

After Millard's arrest, Toronto police reopened their investigations into his father's 2012 death, which had been ruled a suicide, and Babcock's disappearance, also in 2012.

Babcock was last seen on June 26 of that year. She was reported missing by her ex-boyfriend two and a half weeks later.

CBC cutting 657 jobs after hit of losing HNIC

The Canadian Broadcasting Corp. said it will cut 657 jobs over the next two years as it deals with a big budget shortfall. PETER POWER/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Budget. The public broadcaster has been dealt serious blows by loss of Hockey Night in Canada and 'hostile' government cuts

The CBC is slashing 657 positions over two years and will no longer pursue broadcast rights to professional sports as it grapples with a massive budget shortfall.

The public broadcaster announced a swath of cuts Thursday that will shave $130 million from its 2014-2015 budget and spur a new mandate "to reimagine itself" as the media landscape changes.

CBC president Hubert Lacroix detailed the news at a town hall meeting for employees that outlined financial challenges including a softened advertising market, disappointing ratings for CBC-TV, "much lower-than-expected" ad revenues from Espace musique and CBC Radio 2, and the loss of NHL broadcast rights to Rogers Media.

"There's no easy way to deliver news like this," Lacroix said in prepared remarks that were posted online moments after his private address.

"I know many of you are sad. I know there will be many questions. We will answer them straight up, both in our Q&A session today, in the meetings that will follow, and as things take shape over the coming days."

Spokesman Ian Morrison, of the watchdog group Friends of Canadian Broadcasting, blamed the budget troubles on "a hostile" Conservative government that reduced the CBC's funding appropriation by $115 million back in 2012.

Sriracha factory pecked by Irwindale in heated spat

A Southern California city has declared the factory that produces the popular Sriracha hot sauce a public nuisance.

The Irwindale City Council's action Wednesday night gives the factory 90 days to make changes to stop the spicy odours that prompted complaints from some residents last fall. Declaring a public nuisance will allow city officials to enter the factory and make changes if the odours persist after the deadline.

The decision came despite testimony by air-quality experts that progress was being made toward a resolution. The South Coast Air Quality Management District said its inspectors have taken air samples inside the plant, and believed the information gathered should allow the factory and the city to resolve their differences.

Attorney John Tate, who represents Sriracha maker Huy Fong Foods, Inc., said the company had been working with the AQMD on its filtration system since the complaints first arose. He said the company was committed to finding long-term solutions by June 1.

He called the public nuisance declaration a demonstration of "the city flexing its muscle and thumbing Huy Fong in the eye."

A call to Irwindale City Attorney Fred Galante was not immediately returned.

A judge has ruled that major retailers do not have to modify their commercial trademark English names into French, as the province's language watchdog had hoped.

MILEY DROPS BALL ON FEMALE POWER

1 Solidarity. You know that one relative we all enable? The “victim” that alienates everyone, wants no part of the family, but still feels entitled to financial support as if restitution for their “emotional scars”? We pity them but eventually just stop taking their calls. It’s sad. In unrelated news, the Parti Québécois was convincingly defeated in Quebec’s provincial election.

2 Wrecking Ball. Some think that Miley Cyrus is just a wild child, but she’s really a freedom-fighter advocating sexual equality. Cyrus says “Guy rappers grab their crotch all f---ing day and have hos around them... but if I grab my crotch and have hot model b---hes around me, I’m degrading women? ... But I’m part of the evolution of that. I hope.” So there it is: Miley Cyrus is the evolution of female empowerment. As well, probably a growing trend of parents home-schooling their daughters.

3 #MarchMadness. The NCAA men’s basketball finals saw the University of Connecticut Huskies defeat the Kentucky Wildcats. It marked the first time a 7th and 8th seed met in the finals but was no less satisfying. We saw high energy, great dunks, some violent unsportsmanlike conduct, and terrific in-depth analysis. And that was just from the other guys at the bar.

4 #DayofPink. This year’s “international day against bullying, discrimination, homophobia and transphobia in schools and communities” took place this week with tremendous support. The best hope to deter a bully is to educate them and others about how to deal with them. We can draw from our own experiences as almost all of us can relate to being bullied: Some by the big kid at school, others by their boss, and some by Revenue

Canada. (That last one was a cry for help. They’re killing me!)
5 U Conn’t beat ‘em. The day after their boys won it all, U Conn’s undefeated women’s team scored a convincing victory over Notre Dame’s also undefeated ‘fighting Irish’ to bring home the championship. Both teams set new standards for their schools, and for women everywhere. But I can’t help think that somewhere at the heart of all this, stands Miley Cyrus. (What? Too much?) #Uconn

6 Holy week. Two upcoming religious holidays include Passover for the Jews, and Easter for Christians. Both share a historical bond celebrated with wine and feasts and family members gathering to remind each other of things long forgotten. Like the time they went to a party and woke up at the zoo, lost the family savings in a Ponzi scheme, or declared grandpa mentally incompetent to gain control of his estate. All the while, sharing blessings of peace. Happy holidays!

7 In memoriam. The passing of Hollywood icon Mickey Rooney revived reports of elder abuse that left him almost destitute. @peoplemag tweeted: “Mickey Rooney’s funeral delayed by family fighting” which prompted George Lopez to tweet “I didn’t know Mickey Rooney was Mexican?” That aside, his physical stature never diminished his artistic largesse, and that body of work, not his financial estate, is his true legacy. #RIP

Indoor cloud art is mist-ifying

A Dutch artist is taking the creative industry by storm... with his indoor clouds. Berndnaut Smilde, 35, from Amsterdam, Netherlands, uses a smoke machine and clever lighting to create nimbuses of various shapes in empty spaces. An exhibition of his artworks, Antipode, is now on at London, U.K.’s Ronchini Gallery until June 14.

Artist’s viewpoint

“It always takes awhile to get a cloud where I want it. Their ephemerality is what I like the most. They just appear for a few seconds and then it falls apart.”

Berndnaut Smilde, based in Amsterdam

Mystery points to the ominous

Ultimately, “there is a definite ominous element of my work,” the artist says, pointing to the clouds’ mystifying quality. “There is something ungraspable about clouds, which I think is really interesting,” Smilde says.

“For this reason, people have been creating myths and meanings around clouds for centuries,” he concluded.

Babies let their taste buds do the talking

ANDREW FIFIELD
metronews.ca

If we were to rank food flavours that are largely hostile to our taste buds, lemons would have to rank near the top with sour keys and horseradish. But that’s an admittedly sophisticated opinion, hardened by years spent emptying bowls, cups and plates. Combining flavours and whatnot.

To get to the kernel of a lemon’s appeal, we need to return to ground zero for citrusy flavour country and put them in the hands of babies. The results are obviously adorable, but there’s something suspicious about the ones that appear to like it. Or perhaps they’re just old souls.

BEING VERY TIRED?

Middle-Age Energy Booster

Doctors on the Dr. Oz TV Show said that the most frequent complaint they get is "Being Very Tired", some call it fatigue. They have no energy or interest to do anything. More food is not the answer. Drugs are not the answer either as the Johns Hopkins Medical School puts it: "The fact is, all medicines, whether OTC or prescription, carry some risk". It needs a "key" to rejuvenate your own natural systems that fell asleep. Bell provides that key with natural ingredients: Selenium, amines like spermine and spermidine, which are found in radishes, cucumbers and oats as well as all human cells. Nothing could be more natural than topping off that supply. There is no risk. The Wayne State University researched these ingredients for years and Bell guarantees your satisfaction. It is all right to be skeptical and for that reason we show a few results below and have hundreds more, if you go on our website under #7 Erosyn, which has exactly the same ingredients. This rejuvenation means that most men and women may have youthful feelings again for their partner. Those who want it can resume their intimate relationship. We supply the proof that it works. If incontinence plays a role: McMaster University says that 65% of middle-aged women suffer with incontinence and this is the main reason why many withdraw from intimacy. This can be overcome within days by drinking the Bell Bladder Control Tea #4b available in the same stores as #65. No more rushing to the bathroom and no padding or diapers needed anymore. Many people wrote we changed their lives.

Synopsis

On the day of the NFL Draft, Cleveland Browns general manager Sonny Weaver Jr. (Kevin Costner) is faced with some tough choices. His team is not doing well, sports radio talking heads are beating him up for ruining the franchise his late father — the legendary coach Sonny Weaver Sr. — built up and his girlfriend (Jennifer Garner) is angry with him. His future and possibly the future of the team hinges on one deal: a massive trade for hotshot quarterback Bo Callahan (Josh Pence).

Finding feeling in football. Kevin Costner brings a lot of heart to this film about a down-on-his-luck NFL general manager hinging his future on one big trade

Richard: Mark, the message behind Draft Day is that technical ability is one thing, but having heart is more important. It's a key message for the story but vital when considering the movie as a whole. This film is technically proficient, but loads of technically proficient flicks aren't as entertaining as this one. This movie works particularly well because it has heart, just like the players that Kevin Costner's character tries to recruit for his football team.

Mark: Which makes the movie the opposite of Moneyball, which celebrates rationality and scientific method. I much preferred Costner's flawed, slightly desperate soul over Brad Pitt's technocrat. But there were other reasons I liked the movie. Having it take place on one day gives the film an urgency that really pulls you in. And there were some nice directorial flourishes, too.

I haven't seen split screen used so well in a long time. And let's not forget a strong supporting cast.

RC: Like Moneyball, Draft Day scores authenticity points by casting a number of sports figures and insiders playing themselves, but you're right, the supporting cast of professional actors really scores a touchdown. I enjoyed seeing Frank Langella playing the anything-for-a-buck owner of the Browns and Ellen Burstyn and Dennis Leary as Sonny's mother and grumpy coach respectively, are both great. Sean Combs didn't even bother me. Of course, this really is Kevin Costner's movie. He's easy to watch at the best of times but particularly so when he's in the genre that works best for him, and that's sports movies.

MB: And it's hard to watch Costner in this without thinking about his iconic sports roles in Field of Dreams or Bull Durham. In fact, this is often where players wind up — as coaches and managers. So there's a through line to the character to appreciate. The only thing that bothered me was that I am not a football fan. I've never seen a game. So all the negotiations were like watching a game of chess without any idea how the pieces are moved. Could you follow the technical details of the trades? Or were you wishing for subtitles?

RC: Subtitles might have helped a bit, but for me it didn't matter if I followed the intricacies of the draft day business because I think the underlying emotion that comes along with changing someone's life by drafting them into the NFL — I found those scenes powerful.

MB: Director Ivan Reitman has had a tendency to lapse into sentiment and bathos, but he keeps these tendencies nicely in check. I loved Costner, but I was also impressed at the sure handed direction. Reitman's working at the top of his game.

Inside Llewyn Davis. Did that marmelade tabby cat ever come back?

With Inside Llewyn Davis newly available for home viewing, it's time to answer the question that has vexed pet lovers and conspiracy nerds for months.

What did the Coen Bros. do to that poor, bedraggled cat?

If you haven't yet seen the movie, my top film of 2013, and you consider feline misfortune to be a spoiler, please stop reading now and watch Inside Llewyn Davis on DVD or Blu-ray. Enjoy the movie, and come back later.

For the rest of us, it's time to take a cold, hard look at the big furry mystery of the marmelade tabby named Ulysses that dogs New York folk singer Llewyn Davis (Oscar Isaac) in the film. The two become inseparable companions after the couch-surfing Llewyn accidentally locks Ulysses out of the apartment of his genial hosts the Gorfeins, who are both at work. The more Llewyn tries to unload his cat problem onto somebody else, the more Ulysses draws near.

Then the cat decides, as cats are wont to do, that it's time to be on its own. Events transpire to have Llewyn driving a car on the lonely highway between Chicago and New York, a light snow falling. He's fighting fatigue from lack of sleep, barely

Suddenly, something small and furry crosses in front of the windshield. BAM! A shocked Llewyn realizes he's hit something. He pulls the car over to side of the road and examines the front bumper. There's blood all over it.

Then he looks behind the car and sees a small animal, obviously injured, dragging itself toward a stand of trees.

There is no logical reason to assume that this is Ulysses. In fact, logic would suggest otherwise. But such is the power of film that we instinctively assume the injured animal is Llewyn's cat. We feel terrible for it, more than we might for some random roadkill.

I suspect that a lot of cat lovers hated the scene. I also suspect that writers/directors Joel and Ethan Coen realized this might happen, and tried to avoid being tagged as cat haters. I asked them in an interview about the roadside incident when Inside Llewyn Davis premiered theatrically last December. They denied having any murderous intentions toward tabbies, although they did say that cats are way less eager to be movie stars than dogs are.

"It's funny, but we weren't even thinking that while shooting (the road scene)," Ethan said. "We were thinking Llewyn hit some kind of animal. But the cat is so established in the movie, everybody who watches it is determined to turn that creature into the cat."

"Which is understandable," Joel interjected. "It's a random animal. Maybe it's a cat, maybe it's a raccoon. It's hard to see. We wanted it to be very obscure."

"We wanted to not know," Ethan.

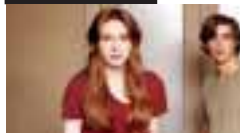

"Not that it matters, but the creature that we actually shot with was a small dog."

Remembering Mickey Rooney: Five great films

Mickey Rooney might be best remembered for his ceaseless ups and downs, his dramatic failures and his many comebacks. But Rooney's roller-coaster melodrama — he was married eight times and quickly spent the fortune he amassed — wouldn't have mattered if he hadn't also had genuine, enduring talent.

In the late 1930s and early 1940s, while under contract to MGM, Rooney was one of the most popular stars on the planet. At just 19, he was the top box-office draw.

In Rooney's subsequent decades, things would rarely come as easily as his early stardom. But across movies, Broadway and television, his manic energy rarely flagged. Rooney, who died Sunday at age 93, remained working into his 90s, still driven to "put on a show."

Here are five of Rooney's most memorable movie roles.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A Midsummer Night's Dream (1935)

The production of Max Reinhardt and William Dieterle's Shakespeare adaptation had to be rearranged after Rooney broke his leg while skiing, enraging Warner Bros. head Jack Warner. But as the mischievous sprite Puck, Rooney (who did the play on stage before the movie) excelled in the dreamy film and it remains one of his finest and most enchanting performances.

National Velvet (1944)

As a former jockey (a common role for the diminutive Rooney), the actor starred opposite an 11-year-old Elizabeth Taylor in her screen debut. The adaptation of Enid Bagnold's tale was Rooney's last film before heading to war, a rare two-year gap in his otherwise constant output.

Boy's Town (1938)

Spencer Tracy starred as the kindly priest Father Edward J. Flanagan, who ran a home for underprivileged boys. But Rooney shared top billing with Tracy, playing the school bully and pool shark, Whitey Marsh, who — with maximum corniness — is reformed in the end. For his performance, Rooney won a special Juvenile Oscar, an honour that was given to performers under the age of 18 from the 1930s to the 1960s, starting with Shirley Temple.

A Family Affair (1937)

It's the film that birthed Rooney's most famous role: Andy Hardy. Rooney would play Hardy, an all-American trouble-making boy, 14 more times over the next decade and again in the attempted revival Andy Hardy Comes Home in 1958. The films were hits. But while Rooney was portraying an idealized American boy — chasing girls (Judy Garland in three films) and getting lectures from his judge father (Lionel Barrymore in A Family Affair) — the young actor was leading the more tempestuous life of a child star.

Babes in Arms (1939)

This big-screen version of the Broadway musical paired Rooney and Judy Garland. Rooney earned his first lead actor Oscar nomination for the film, which showcased his song-and-dance talent with numbers like The Lady Is a Tramp and Good Morning, later featured in Singin' in the Rain.

Colbert to take over Letterman spot

Late Show. CBS chooses popular political satirist to helm talk show

CBS moved swiftly Thursday to replace the retiring David Letterman with Comedy Central's Stephen Colbert, who will take over the Late Show next year and do battle with Jimmy Fallon and Jimmy Kimmel for late-night television supremacy.

Colbert, 49, has been hosting The Colbert Report since 2005, in character as a fictional conservative talk-show host. The character will retire with The Colbert Report.

"Simply being a guest on David Letterman's show has been a highlight of my career," Colbert said. "I never dreamed that I would follow in his footsteps, though everyone in late night follows Dave's lead."

Letterman, who turns 67 on Saturday, announced on his show last week that he would retire some time in 2015, although he hasn't set a date. CBS said Thursday that creative elements of Colbert's new show, including where it will be based, will be announced later.

Mayors of New York and Los Angeles have already publicly urged the new Late Show host to choose their city. New York would appear to have the clear edge, since Colbert is already based in New York and CBS owns the Ed Sullivan Theater, where the Late Show has been taped since Letterman took over in 1993.

Letterman offered his endorsement Thursday. "Stephen has always been a real friend to me," he said. "I'm very excited for him, and I'm flattered that CBS chose him. I also happen to know they wanted another guy with glasses."

It's a rapidly changing period for that time slot. Fallon took over for Jay Leno on NBC's Tonight show in February, and has dominated the ratings since his arrival, with Letterman and Kimmel running neck-and-neck for second. Chelsea Handler has also said she is about to end her talk show on E! Entertainment Television.

CBS chose not to break the mould: CBS, ABC and NBC will all compete at 11:35 p.m. with shows hosted by white males. CBS, which has an older audience and generally seeks personalities with the widest appeal possible, is taking a chance with a person himself, and that's what led us to Stephen," said Nina Tassler, CBS entertainment chairman. She said CBS considered several candidates, but did not name them.

Colbert's show won the Emmy for best variety series last year and has earned two Peabody Awards. It's another big move for a Jon Stewart his comedy than he would.

"He is a uniquely talented individual," Stewart said. "He's wonderful in Colbert Report, but he's got gears he hasn't even shown people yet. He would be remarkable."

The choice of Colbert quickly drew the ire of a real-life conservative talk-show host. Radio's Rush Limbaugh said Thursday that CBS "has just declared war on the heartland of America. No longer is comedy going to be a covert assault on traditional American values, conservatives. Now it's just wide open."

Limbaugh mispronounced Colbert's name as col-bert, instead of the proper pronunciation, col-bear.

The man Colbert is replacing was a target for conservatives, too. Letterman made Republican favourite Sarah Palin a frequent target of his barbs.

Tassler declined comment on what Colbert's ascension will mean for Craig Ferguson, who follows Letterman's show in the 12:35 a.m. time slot and was considered a candidate for Letterman's job.

Colbert would likely enter into some friendly competition with Fallon. Colbert appeared on Fallon's first Tonight show, one of a line of personalities in a gag involving people who had to "pay up" on a bet about whether Fallon would ever get the Tonight gig.

Brad Adgate, an analyst for Horizon Media, described Colbert as "the best talk-show host available." He said CBS wanted to move quickly to make its choice for Letterman's replacement before next month's meeting with advertisers in New York about the upcoming season's schedule.

"When you've got fire in the belly, you move fast," Tassler said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rolling Stone flubs U.S. Constitution 'tattoo' on Louis-Dreyfus's back

Julia Louis-Dreyfus better hope her latest tattoo is a temporary one.

The cover image of next month's Rolling Stone magazine featuring the Veep star depicts a nude Louis-Dreyfus with a tattoo of the U.S. Constitution signed by John Hancock across her back. The problem is Hancock signed the Declaration of Independence, not the Constitution.

Louis-Dreyfus jokingly blamed the blunder on Mike McClintock, the fictional Veep character played by Matt Walsh who serves as communications director to Louis-Dreyfus' Vice-President Selina Meyer on the HBO comedy series.

"Yet another Mike (expletive)-up," the 53-year-old actress posted Wednesday on Twitter. "Dummy."

The National Constitution Center in Philadelphia mocked the flub by tweeting a photo of the cover alongside such founding fathers as George Washington and Benjamin Franklin in Signers' Hall with the words, "Thanks for the shoutout but no Hancock here."

The new issue of Rolling Stone, out April 24. MARK SELIGER/ROLLING STONE

Rolling Stone spokeswoman Melissa Bruno said the Declaration of Independence is on the other side of Louis-Dreyfus' body, but they couldn't fit in the signatures.

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Naya Rivera, Big Sean put the 'ex' in Rolex

MELINDA TAUB

Metro World News

Naya Rivera and Big Sean have called off their engagement. But their breakup is no placid, cordial conscious uncoupling. It's more of a tweet-accusations-of-theft kind of uncoupling.

Rapper Big Sean's rep said that it was his decision to call off the engagement, denying rumours that he'd cheated. Sources told TMZ that he called things off because Rivera, who stars on Glee as Santana, was too controlling and jealous.

Rivera herself felt no need to get her side of the story out through anonymous sources: She went straight to the Internet. In a now-deleted tweet, she wrote, "@bigsean stealing rolexes from a lady's house now. Maybe cuz I'm on Glee and making more money or something. #triflin."

Burn! But the story doesn't end there. Sources told TMZ that the watch was actually Sean's and he just lent it to Rivera. We look forward to more deleted tweets in response.

Regardless, neither is likely to languish in singlehood for long: Rivera seems to have gone up a cup size or two of late. And hey, Big Sean has a Rolex now.

Lena Dunham GETTY IMAGES

Dunham was crushed to realize she's straight

While being honoured at the Point Foundation awards earlier this week, Dunham praised her lesbian sister and admitted to a tinge of sexual orientation-centred jealousy, according to E! Online. "I have always felt a strong and emotional connection to the members of the LGBTQ community," Dunham says. "It was actually a huge disappointment for me when I came of age and realized that I was sexually attracted to men. So when my sister came out I thought, 'Thank God, someone in this family can truly represent my passions and beliefs.'"

The California Wine Fair has begun its annual trek across the country. It's always a classy night out, and fans of The Golden State will get to wet their whistle with a wide variety of wines from many of Cali's prime wine regions.

Though the Napa and Sonoma Valleys made it famous, California has almost 150 American Viticultural Areas (AVAs). These AVAs define each wine's geographical origin and where grapes that made the juice were grown.

Paso Robles may not be the easiest region to pronounce (it's pah-sow-row-bless), but it's producing some of the most original wines on the U.S. west coast from dozens of different grape varieties. Located between Los Angeles and San Francisco, it's also the home to many of Cali's most straight forward and consistent whites and reds made from mainstream fruit.

Liberty School's 2010

Cabernet Sauvignon ($19.99 - $21.99) is a gutsy, dark berry-driven red that makes a great pairing with everything from pepper steak to casual meats.

Condiment

Salsa Verde

- 1 1/2 cups (2 handfuls) parsley leaves, de-stemmed
- 1 handful (about 40) chives, chopped
- 1 cup extra virgin olive oil
- 1/4 cup capers
- 3 cloves garlic
- 4 tbsp lemon juice
- 2 tsp Dijon mustard
- ground black pepper
- 1/4 small red onion, chopped
- 1 small tin (8-10) anchovies, drained
- yolk of one hard boiled egg

Purée all the ingredients in a food processor until smooth. Salsa Verde keeps in a covered jar in the fridge for about a week or it can be frozen.

Knights a loss away from long layoff

OHL playoffs. Storm put Knights on ropes with London defence folding under increased workload

DAVE LANGFORD
dave.langford@metronews.ca

The London Knights are one loss away from having an unplanned five-week vacation.

In a situation the Knights have dreaded since they were awarded the Memorial Cup, they lost 6-3 to the Guelph Storm and now are down 3-1 in the best-of-seven conference semifinal series.

A loss Friday in Guelph and they will be heading to the Memorial Cup as host team waiting for the tournament to begin May 16. If a sixth game is necessary, it will be Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Budweiser Gardens.

Scott Kosmachuk and Zack Mitchell, with two each, Ben Harpur and Robby Fabbri scored for the Storm. Dakota Mermis, Gemel Smith and CJ Yakimowicz scored for the Knights.

In the opening period, the Knights showed their lack of depth on defence as the first Guelph goal was directly a result of rookie Aiden Jamieson's giveaway and, minutes later, Tim Bender took a needless delay-of-the-game penalty for flipping the puck over the glass.

Again, the Knights left goalie Jake Patterson on his own several times and trailed 2-0 at the end of the period.

However, the Knights scored once in the second — they missed on a penalty shot by Max Domi — and had their best 20 minutes in five periods at home in the series.

The final period was simply a disaster, with Patterson being replaced by backup Justin Tugwell after the fifth Guelph goal. They also missed a second penalty-shot attempt.

The Knights are missing stalwart overage defencemen Zach Bell (broken leg) and Brady Austin (mononucleosis) for this series and it shows.

Meanwhile, earlier in the day, the Toronto Maple Leafs announced they had signed Knights forward Ryan Rupert to a three-year entry-level contract. He was a sixth-round selection in 2012.

Rupert said one of his first moves might be getting a new vehicle, replacing his 12-year-old Volkswagen Jetta.

"She's got 376 (thousand kilometres) on her," Rupert said. "End of the line for it so hopefully looking at something. Preferably a truck, but we'll see."

Rupert spent some time thanking his family, the Hunter brothers and his minor hockey and junior B coaches.

"I can't forget anybody."

How about your teammate, linemate and 10-minute older twin brother Matt?

"Usually, I am speaking as both of us together," he said, laughing at his omission. "That's why you probably always hear us speak as 'we' or 'our.' It's going to be different saying 'I' for once."

Western Mustangs

Bird, Ort and Breen to take their places on Wall of Champions

Three former players headline the inductees into this year's Western Mustangs Wall of Champions.

This year's class is made up of Larry Bird, Derek Krete and Reg Ort in the player category; Joe Breen (awarded posthumously) and Gary Jubenville in the builder category; and the 1994 Vanier Cup championship team in the team category.

The inductees will be honoured Friday night at the Wall of Champions dinner, taking place in the Great Hall at Somerville House at Western.

Bird played in 1969-70 and was later inducted into Saskatchewan Roughriders Plaza of Honour in 2002. Krete was an all-Canadian linebacker in 1994 and 1996, also winning the President's Trophy in 1996 as top defensive player in the country.

Ort, from 1948-51, starred in three sports at Western — football, wrestling and hockey — and was awarded the Claude Brown Trophy as Western's male athlete of the year in 1952.

Breen, in 1929, was the first head coach of Mustang football team. Jubenville was video coordinator and team manager from 1991-2009.

Could the Buffalo Bills be moving to Niagara Falls?

Looking to relocate.

A task force is considering a number of potential locations that could be the new home of the Bills

Don't rule out Niagara Falls as a potential future home of the Buffalo Bills.

Several officials told The Associated Press that a newly formed Bills stadium task force of public and private leaders seeking to bolster the team's long-term viability is considering sites that would put it closer to the team's burgeoning Ontario fan base.

"We're looking at Niagara County," Lt. Gov. Robert

Duffy told the AP this week. "We're open to looking at a number of venues."

Niagara Falls Mayor Paul Dyster confirmed Niagara County was discussed as an option during the inaugural meeting last week of the newly formed New Stadium Working Group committee.

Duffy made clear "that all options should be on the table," Dyster said, adding that includes Niagara County and even Batavia, about halfway between Buffalo and Rochester.

That goes beyond the group's initial directive, which was first limited to seeking potential stadium sites in Erie County, where Buffalo is located.

Another idea is having the Bills relocate their headquarters to the University at Though not a member of the working group, New York state Sen. Tim Kennedy told the AP he is aware of the preliminary discussions tying the Bills and the school.

Former UFC champion Georges St-Pierre says his knee surgery went well and the rehab that looms ahead won't impact his decision on whether to return to mixed martial arts competition.

"And if I want to come back, when I want to come back, I'll do it again. I'll have all the tools to do it again. I'm not going to be less strong or less athletic — I'm going to be just better." THE CANADIAN PRESS

Making Haaste to the top of the leaderboard

The Masters. Bill Haas attempting to win green jacket for his golfing family

With dad in his ear, Bill Haas turned in the best round of his Masters career Thursday.

Now he wants to do what his father never could — finish the job.

Haas birdied the final hole for a 4-under 68 and the opening-round lead, the first time he has broken 70 in five appearances at Augusta National.

His father, Jay, played in the Masters 22 times, with five top-10 finishes topped by a tie for third in 1995. He is staying with his son this week and providing valuable advice on the practice range.

"I never remember thinking, 'Man, I wish I could hit this shot for my dad,'" Bill Haas said. "But I do know that there's times I'm like, 'I wish my dad could hit this shot for me.'"

Jay Haas never won a major despite having plenty of success on the PGA Tour.

Maybe his 31-year-old son can take care of that family oversight.

"I think he deserves a major in his career as good as he played," Bill Haas said.

Defending champion Adam Scott has his major title and got off to a strong start in his quest to stay dressed in green.

Scott rolled in a testy putt to save par at the 18th, and finished with a 69, one shot off the lead.

Canadians in Augusta

It was a tough first round for Graham DeLaet of Weyburn, Sask. DeLaet bogeyed six of his first seven holes and opened at 8-over 80.

- Mike Weir of Bright's Grove, Ont., who won the green jacket in 2003, shot a first round of 1 over.

"It was a nice way to walk off, not shooting 70," Scott said.

Louis Oosthuizen and Bubba Watson, another owner of a green jacket, matched Scott with a 69.

Playing in their first Masters, Jimmy Walker, Kevin Stadler and Jonas Blixt were among those shooting 70, making their way around the course just fine despite some unfamiliarity with the revered layout. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

The influence of Neptune, planet of deception, in your chart warns you could give away too much information about yourself. Be generous with your time and, if you can afford it, with your money but keep your secrets to yourself.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Why are you trying to swim against the tide when you know it's a battle you are destined to lose? You may not agree with the way things are going but you have no choice but to go with it, for now.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Someone you have always thought of as a rival will surprise you today by being not just friendly but also open and honest on a personal level. Is it a trick? No it is not.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

If you want to make a success of something, get assistance. According to the planets, you have taken it as far as you can on your own. Now you must share the load with others.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Over the next week you will think more and more about your career and long-term ambitions. The need to make money may be a motivating factor but the most important thing is that do what you love.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You seem to be in everyone's good books at the moment, which makes you suspicious. The simple fact is some people like you for who you are, so stop being negative.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

If you say something you know to be untrue today, the planets warn you will be found out. There is absolutely no reason you should lie or give false information.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

You may not understand why so many people are singing your praises but you must have done something to warrant being the centre of attention. Milk the applause.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

You may be on top of your game but a week or so from now your energy may dip, so don't make too many plans and certainly don't take on any more chores. If anything, you need a rest.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

Something unexpected will happen today and because you like everything to happen at the right time, chances are you will be thrown out of your stride. Good. It's not healthy to get too set in your ways.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The more open you have been in recent weeks, the more you need to spend some time by yourself now. This is a time for thinking and for coming to terms with your feelings. You can't do that at a party.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

You may have to take a detour today but that's OK. You will reach your chosen destination so don't be impatient. It's what you see and hear and feel along the way that makes the journey worth it. SALLY BROMPTON
